

Kojo Nnamdi Show, WAMU 88.5 FM

Features Sara Hebel, Senior Editor, The Chronicle of Higher Education
For a segment on "College Affordability"
21 December 2009

College Affordability

When the economy turns down, tuition goes up--as do financial aid requests and the number of higher-paying, out-of-state students at public universities. But what do those trends mean for racial and economic diversity on campus? Kojo explores the pressures on college affordability during a recession.

Guests

- Sandy Baum, Senior Policy Analyst for the College Board, Economics Professor emerita, Skidmore College; co-author of the College Board's "Trends in College Pricing" and "Trends in Student Aid" reports
- Sara Hebel, Politics Editor, *Chronicle of Higher Education
- Sarah Bauder, Director of Financial Aid, University of Maryland, College Park

Related links

- College Board Trends in Pricing and Student Aid
- Chronicle of Higher Education
- University of Maryland Student Financial Aid